Travel notes for a seamless journey

LANDSCAPE

Mui Ne is a coastal fishing town in the Bình Thuận Province of Vietnam. The town, with approximately 25,000 residents is a ward of the city of Phan Thiết. The area boasts many Cham Towers and many Cham people still reside in the area. Mui Ne is also famous for being one of the top destinations for kite surfing and windsurfing with strong sea breezes.

PEOPLE

Vietnamese people are very friendly and keen to help at any time. Should you have the privilege to be invited into a private home, rice will be served with most meals and the host will give a sign to start eating. Dishes should be passed with both hands. When eating noodle soup, hold the bowl close to your face with the flat spoon in your left hand and the chopsticks in your right. When you have finished eating, rest your chopsticks on top of your bowl as it is considered bad luck to leave these standing in the food.

WEATHER

Weather in Phan Thiết is considered tropical, with separate wet & dry seasons. Winter is the dry season, with more than two months of less than 60 mm (2.4mm) rain. Average monthly temperatures are above 18°C (64°F). The hottest month is May, when the maximum temperature is about 34°C. Rain and thunderstorms are common. The coldest month is December, however temperatures can still reach 22 C at night.

ARRIVAL

Tan Son Nhat International Airport in Ho Chi Minh City has numerous daily international and domestic departures to destinations throughout Asia and the globe. We are pleased to help to connect you to our resort with our private limousine service for the 2.5 hour drive.

If you are an adventurer, train travel from Ho Chi Minh City to Phan Thiet is another scenic option. Please alert us to your arrival time, and our limousine service will be happy to bring you from the train station to resort.
